

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

NOTICE OF THIRD EDITION.—“The simple fact that this list of Statutes has reached a third edition is its best recommendation to law students. It was a very happy conception of Mr Marcy's to arrange the Statutes under the different branches of law examinations, and his work is calculated to save students much labour. This edition is enlarged, and, therefore, increased in value.”—Law Times, 26th Nov. 1870.

GEORGE SILLS, M.A.,

Of St John's College, Cambridge, and of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law,

AUTHOR OF

"A TREATISE ON COMPOSITION DEEDS UNDER THE BANKRUPTCY ACTS OF 1861 AND 1868."

"Mr Sills is already favourably known as an author upon the subject of Composition Deeds, and we may therefore expect him to be at home with the subject which he has now chosen. Inasmuch as the 'rules and orders' form part of the volume, it may be regarded as complete, and in form and size, and in cheapness, we may add, there is nothing to be desired. The introduction very clearly, and in a few words, contrasts the new Act with former legislation, and the chapters on the Act of 1869, as regards bankruptcy, liquidation by arrangement, composition with creditors, abolition of imprisonment for debt, and punishment of fraudulent debtors, are good, and the authorities are carefully collated. We can recommend the volume to all classes of practitioners."—Law Magazine.

"The cases having any practical bearing are carefully noted up, and a full index renders the book complete."—County Courts Chronicle.

"That part of the book which is the work of the author, the Treatise, seems to be accurate in the statement, and will no doubt be found useful as an introduction to the study of the Act."—Solicitors' Journal.

"Mr Sills has given us seventy-three pages of very lawyer-like and lucid exposition of the new law. He seems, moreover, to have cited as many cases as could well be applicable. His Appendix contains all the machinery, and he completes the work with a carefully-compiled Index."—Law Times.

"The title-page of Mr Sill's book is a full index of the contents. It will suffice for us to remark that the author has carefully edited the various Acts and Rules and Orders. The Introduction, with notes, is a concise exposition of the new law."—Law Journal.

BY

ROGER WATTERS, ESQ.,

OF THE MIDDLE TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

"Mr Watters subjects the Statutes mentioned above to a minute and searching anatomy and criticism. Unfriendly, though not unfair, hypercritical, but always learned and ingenious, he has produced an elaborate Commentary on the Acts, which, if not always available as a guide, will very frequently be useful as an indicator or monitor."—Jurist.

"We think that this Treatise will be found useful in practice, so far as any Treatise on such specimens of piecemeal legislation as those to which it relates can be useful. Its style is clear, the diction used throughout good, and if the author sometimes inclines to transcendental speculation, he is, on the other hand, as a general rule, sufficiently practical and homely, and always interesting. We confidently recommend this work to those who require an instructive guide on the Statutes of which it treats. It contains a good table of contents and a copious index."—Solicitors' Journal.

PREFACE TO THE FIRST EDITION.

THE primary order of arrangement in the present work is chronological ; but where there is a series of Acts upon the same subject, that arrangement has been departed from, in order to admit of such Acts being grouped under one head, as, for example, in the case of the "Statutes of Mortmain," "Judgments," &c. &c. Those sections which have been omitted from the Acts in the present Work will be found, as a rule, to be unimportant ; though occasionally they have been omitted as involving matters of detail, for which the Student or Practitioner would always resort to the Act of Parliament itself.

LINCOLN'S INN,

January 27th, 1873.

PREFACE TO THE SECOND EDITION.

THE present edition has been enlarged not only by the addition of the Statutes passed with reference to Conveyancing during the last Session of Parliament, but also by the insertion of many of the older Acts, more particularly the Statutes of Limitation and the Trustee Acts of 1850 and 1852. In the preparation of this edition, the Author tenders his acknowledgments to the admirable treatise (seventh edition) of the late Leonard Shelford, Esq., upon the Real Property Statutes, passed in the reigns of King William IV. and Queen Victoria, a new and improved edition of which has recently appeared under the able editorship of Mr Thomas H. Carson of Lincoln's Inn.

EPITOME OF STATUTES

RELATING TO

CONVEYANCING.

DE DONIS CONDITIONALIBUS.

13 EDW. I. c. 1.

A.D. 1285.

1. Preamble.—Prior to this statute, if lands were given to a man and the heirs of his body, he was able, the moment he had issue born, to alienate the lands, and thus defeat the intention of the donor.

2. Therefore, henceforth the will of the giver, according to the form in the deed of gift manifestly expressed, shall be observed, so that they to whom the land is given as aforesaid shall have no power to alien it, but it shall go to their own issue after their death, or revert to the giver, or his heirs if issue fail.

QUIA EMPTORES.

18 EDW. I. c. 1 AND 2.

A.D. 1290.

CAP. 1.

To put a stop to the practice of subinfeudation, it is enacted that from henceforth it shall be lawful to every freeman to sell at his own pleasure his lands and tenements, or part of them, so that the feoffee shall hold the same of the chief lord of the same fee, by such service and customs as his feoffor held before.

CAP. 2.

If he sell part of such lands or tenements to any, the feoffee shall immediately hold it of the chief lord, and shall be charged with so much service as pertaineth to the said chief lord for such part.

SALE OF LAND BY PART OF THE EXECUTORS.

21 HEN. VIII. c. 4.

A.D. 1529.

1. Where lands are willed to be sold by executors, and part of them refuse to take upon themselves the administration of the will, all sales of such lands by the executors who accept such administration shall be as effectual as if all the executors named in the will had joined.

STATUTE OF USES.

27 HEN. VIII. c. 10.

A.D. 1535.

1. Where any person or persons shall be seised of any lands, rents, or other hereditaments, to the use, confidence, or trust of any other person or persons, or of any body politic, such person or persons and bodies politic that shall have any such use, confidence, or trust in fee-simple, fee-tail, for life or years, shall be seised and deemed in lawful seisin and possession of the same lands, rents, and hereditaments for the same estates as they have in the use, trust, or confidence, and that the estate of the former shall be in the latter after such quality as they had before in or to the use, confidence, or trust.

2. Where several persons are jointly seised of lands to the use, confidence, or trust of any of them so jointly seised, the persons having such use, &c., shall have only such estate at law in the lands as they had before in the use.

4 and 5. Where any persons stand seised of any lands or hereditaments, in fee-simple or otherwise, to the use and intent that some other person shall have yearly to him and his heirs, or to him and his assigns, an annual rent for life or years, or some other special time, such last-named person shall be deemed in possession and seisin of the same rent for such estate as he had in the use, and may distrain for such rent.

6 and 9. A married woman shall not be entitled to dower and jointure out of her husband's lands; but if the jointure be given to her after marriage (otherwise than by Act of Parliament), she may, after the death of her husband, elect to take such jointure or her dower.

FRAUDULENT CONVEYANCES.

AS TO CREDITORS.

13 ELIZ. c. 5.

A.D. 1570.

2. Every alienation and conveyance of lands, hereditaments, goods, or chattels, and every bond, suit, judgment, and execution, made with intent to delay or defraud creditors, shall be utterly void as against such creditors.

6. But the Act is not to affect assurances made bond fide, and for good (that is, valuable) consideration, to a person without notice of the fraud.

32 & 33 VICT. c. 71.

9th August 1869.

3. Act to commence on 1st January 1870.

4. The word "Property" shall include every description of property whether real or personal.

91. Any settlement of property made by a trader, otherwise than in consideration of marriage, or in favour of a bond fide purchaser or incumbrancer for value, or made on his wife or children of property accrued to him after marriage in right of his wife, shall, if he becomes bankrupt within two years after the date of such settlement, be void against the trustee in bankruptcy, and shall, if the settlor becomes bankrupt subsequently within ten years after date of such settlement, also be void against such trustee, unless the claimants under such settlement prove that the settlor was, at the time of making thereof, able to pay all his debts without the aid of the property comprised in such settlement. Any covenant or contract by a trader in consideration of marriage for the future settlement on his wife or children, of any money or property wherein he had not, at the date of his marriage, any interest, and not being money or property of, or in right of his wife, shall, on his becoming bankrupt before such property or money has been actually transferred or paid pursuant to such covenant or contract, be void against his trustee in bankruptcy.

"Settlement" shall include any conveyance or transfer of property.

AS TO PURCHASERS.

27 ELIZ. c. 4.

A.D. 1585.

2. Every conveyance, lease, and incumbrance of lands or hereditaments made with intent to deceive a purchaser shall, as against such purchaser and those claiming under him, be utterly void.

4 and 6. But the Act does not extend to conveyances or mortgages made bond fide and for good (that is, valuable) consideration.

5. If any person make a conveyance, &c., of land revocable at will, and afterwards sell such land for money or other good consideration, such former conveyance, if not revoked, shall be void as against such purchaser and all persons claiming under him.

1. 2. The provisions of this Act shall apply to the Duke of Cornwall, and to the provisions of 7 & 8 Vict. c. 105, and 23 & 24 Vict. c. 53.

1. In actions of debt or on the case upon simple contract, no acknowledgment shall be deemed sufficient to take a case out of the operation of 21 Jac. I. c. 16, unless such acknowledgment be in writing, signed by the party chargeable thereby; and in case of several joint contractors, or executors, or administrators of any contractor, no such joint contractor, executor, or administrator, shall lose the benefit of the said Act by reason of any written acknowledgment signed by any other of them. Act not to lessen the effect of any payment of principal or interest. If in any action against several joint contractors, or executors, or administrators, it appear that Plaintiff, though barred as to some of them by said Act, or this Act, is entitled to recover against any others of them by virtue of a new acknowledgment or otherwise, judgment and costs may be given for Plaintiff as to defendants against whom he recovers, and for the other defendants against the Plaintiff.

3. No memorandum of payment made on any promissory note, bill of exchange, or other writing, by, or on behalf of the party to whom such payment shall be made, shall be deemed sufficient proof of such payment to take the case out of the said statute.

4. The said Act and this Act shall apply to any debt on simple contract alleged by way of set-off on the part of the defendant.

† 5. No action shall be maintained whereby to charge any person upon any promise made after full age to pay any debt contracted during infancy, or upon any ratification after full age of any promise or simple contract made during infancy, unless such promise or ratification be made in writing, signed by the party to be charged therewith.

7. The 17th section of 29 Car. II. c. 3 shall extend to all contracts for the sale of goods of the value of £10 sterling, and upwards, notwithstanding the goods may be intended to be delivered at some future time, or may not at the time of such contract be actually made or provided, or ready for delivery, or some act may be requisite for the making or completing thereof, or rendering the same fit for delivery.

8. Memorandums under this Act exempted from stamp duty.

9. Act not to extend to Scotland.

10. Act to commence on 1st January 1829.

3 & 4 WM. IV. c. 27.*

24th July 1833.

1. In this Act the word "land" shall extend to all corporeal hereditaments, also to tithes (except tithes belonging to a spiritual or eleemosynary corporation sole), also to any interest therein, and of whatever tenure. The word "rent" shall extend to all heriots, and to all services for which distress may be made, and to all periodical sums payable out of land (except moduses or compositions belonging to a spiritual or eleemosynary corporation sole).

* 2. After the 31st of December 1833, no person shall make entry or distress, or bring an action to recover land or rent, but within twenty years after the right to do so first accrued to him or to some person through whom he claims.

3. The right to make such entry or distress, or bring such action, shall be deemed to have first accrued as follows: namely, when the claimant has been in possession or receipt of rents, and has been dispossessed, then at the time of such dispossession; when the claimant claims the estate of a deceased person who has been in possession until his death, and has been the last person in possession, then at the time of such death; when the claimant claims in respect of an estate in possession, assured by any instrument (other than a will) to him, or some one through whom he claims, by a person in possession, and no person entitled under such instrument has been in possession, then at the time at which such claimant, or the person through whom he, claims, became entitled to such possession under such instrument; when the estate claimed is in reversion or other future estate, and no person has obtained possession in respect of such estate, then at the time at which such estate became an estate in possession; when the claimant, or some person through whom he claims, becomes entitled by any forfeiture, or breach of condition, then when such forfeiture or breach occurred.

* The sections of this Act which are marked with an asterisk are repealed as from the 1st January 1879 by 37 & 38 Vict. c. 57, post.

4. If advantage of forfeiture or breach of condition is not taken by a reversioner or remainderman, his right to make such entry or distress, or bring such action, shall be deemed to have first accrued when his estate comes into possession.

* 5. The right to make entry or distress, or bring action for land or rent in respect of a reversion, shall be deemed to have first accrued when the same becomes an estate in possession, by the determination of the prior estate, notwithstanding the claimant, or some person through whom he claims, has, previously to the creation of such prior estate, been in possession.

6. An administrator shall claim as if there had been no interval between the death of his intestate and grant of administration.

7. In the case of a tenant at will, the right of the person entitled subject thereto, or of the person through whom he claims, shall be deemed to have first accrued, either at the determination of such tenancy, or at the end of one year after the commencement of such tenancy; but no mortgagor or cestui que trust shall be deemed tenant at will, within this clause, to his mortgagee or trustee.

8. In case of tenant from year to year, or other period, without lease in writing, the right of the person entitled subject thereto, or of the person through whom he claims, shall be deemed to have first accrued at the end of the first year, or other period, or the last payment of rent (which shall last happen).

9. Where rent amounting to 20s. a year or upwards, reserved by lease in writing, shall have been wrongfully received, the right of the person entitled subject to such lease, or of the person through whom he claims, shall be deemed to have first accrued at the time when such rent was first wrongfully received, and not on the determination of such lease.

10. A mere entry shall not be deemed possession.

11. No right shall be preserved by continual claim.

12. Possession of one coparcener, joint tenant, or tenant in common, shall not be deemed possession of the others of them.

13. Possession of a younger brother, or other relation of the heir, shall not be deemed the possession of the heir.

14. When an acknowledgment of title, in writing, signed by the person in possession, has been given to the person entitled, or his agent, the right of such last-mentioned person, or any person claiming through him, shall be deemed to have first accrued at, and not before the time at which such acknowledgment, or the last of such acknowledgments, if more than one, was given.

15. Where no such acknowledgment has been given before this Act, and possession is not adverse at the time of passing this Act, then the right shall not be barred till the end of five years after passing of this Act, notwithstanding the said period of twenty years has expired.

DISABILITIES.

*16. Persons under disability of infancy, coverture, idiotcy, lunacy, unsoundness of mind, or absence beyond seas, at the time when the right arose, and also persons claiming under them, may, notwithstanding the said period of twenty years has expired, make such entry or distress, or bring such action, within ten years after the removal of their disability, or their death (which shall first happen).

*17. But no entry, distress, or action shall be made or brought by any person under disability, or any person claiming through him, but within forty years after the right first accrued.

18. If any person be under disability when his right accrues, and dies without having ceased to be under disability, no further time shall be allowed beyond the said period of twenty years, or ten years, as the case may be, by reason of the disability of any other person.

19. Scotland, Ireland, and the islands of Man, Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, and Sark, and the adjacent islands (being part of Her Majesty's dominions), shall not be deemed beyond seas within the meaning of this Act.

20. When the right of a person to an estate in possession is barred by the determination of the period hereinbefore limited, and such person shall also be entitled, at any time during the same period, to an estate in remainder or otherwise, his right in respect of such future estate shall also be barred, unless in the meantime the land or rent has been recovered by some person entitled to an estate limited to take effect after such estate in possession.

ESTATES TAIL.

21. When the right of a tenant in tail is barred by the determination of the period hereinbefore limited, the right of all persons whom he might have barred shall also be barred.

22. Where possession is adverse to a tenant in tail, the right of all persons whom he might have barred shall be barred within the same time as the tenant in tail would have been barred, if he had continued to live.

*23. Where a tenant in tail makes an assurance which does not bar the remainders, and any person is in possession under such assurance, and such person or any other person (except a person entitled after the estate tail) continues in possession for twenty years after the time when such assurance, if then executed, would, without the consent of any other person, have barred the remainders, then at the expiration of such twenty years such assurance shall bar the remainders.

SUITS IN EQUITY.

24. After the 31st of December 1833, no person shall bring any suit in equity to recover land or rent but within the period during which, if entitled at law, he might have brought an action.

25. But when land or rent is vested in a trustee upon any express trust, the right of the cestui que trust to bring such suit against the trustee shall be deemed to have first accrued at, and not before the time when such land or rent shall be conveyed to a purchaser for value, and then only as against such purchaser and persons claiming through him.

26. In cases of concealed fraud the right of any person to bring any such suit shall be deemed to have first accrued at, and not before the time at which such fraud shall, or, with reasonable diligence, might have been first discovered ; except as against a bond fide purchaser for value, innocent of such fraud.

27. Act not to interfere with any rule of equity in refusing relief on ground of acquiescence or otherwise, to any person whose right may not be barred by this Act.

MORTGAGOR AND MORTGAGEE.

*28. When a mortgagee has obtained possession or receipt of the rents of the mortgaged land, no suit for redemption shall be brought but within twenty years from the time when the mortgagee obtained such possession or receipt, unless in the meantime a written acknowledgment of the mortgagor's title or right of redemption, signed by the mortgagee, has been given to the mortgagor, or his agent ; and in such case no such suit shall be brought but within twenty years next after such acknowledgment, or the last of such acknowledgments, was given. In the case of several mortgagors such acknowledgment, if given to one of them, or his agent, shall be sufficient ; but in the case of several mortgagees, such acknowledgment, if signed by one or more of them, shall be effectual only against the mortgagees so signing: and where the mortgagees so signing shall be entitled to a divided part of the mortgaged land, and not to any ascertained part of the mortgage money, the mortgagor shall be entitled to redeem such divided part on payment, with interest, of such proportion of the mortgage money as the value of such divided part bears to the whole of the mortgaged property.

By 7 Wm. IV. and 1 Vict. c. 28, it is enacted that mortgagees may make entry or bring action at law, or suit in equity, to recover the mortgaged land, at any time within twenty years after the payment of any part of the principal or interest, although more than twenty years have elapsed since the right to make such entry or bring such action or suit first accrued.

ECCLESIASTICAL PROPERTY.

29. After the 31st of December 1833, no archbishop, parson, or other spiritual or eleemosynary corporation sole shall make an entry or distress, or bring an action or suit to recover land or rent, but within the following periods next after his right to do so first accrued; (that is to say) the period of two successive incumbencies and six years after a third person shall have been appointed thereto, if such periods taken together amount to sixty years, but if they do not, then such further number of years beyond six as will with such two incumbencies and six years make up sixty years.

30. After the 31st of December 1833, no person shall bring any action or suit to enforce a right to present to or bestow an ecclesiastical benefice, as patron thereof, after the expiration of the period of three successive incumbencies adverse to the right claimed, if such period amounts to sixty years; but if not, then after the expiration of such further time as, with the times of such incumbencies, will make up sixty years.

31. When on an avoidance after a clerk has obtained adverse possession of an ecclesiastical benefice, a clerk shall be presented by Her Majesty or the Ordinary by reason of lapse, such last-mentioned clerk shall be deemed to have obtained possession adversely to the right of the patron; but when a clerk shall have been presented by Her Majesty upon avoidance in consequence of the incumbent having been made a bishop, the incumbency of such clerk shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed a continuation of the incumbency of the clerk so made bishop.

32. Any person claiming an ecclesiastical benefice, as patron, by virtue of any estate which a tenant in tail of the advowson might have barred, shall be deemed to claim through such tenant in tail, and the right to bring an action or suit shall be limited accordingly.

33. After the 31st of December 1833, no person shall bring any action or suit to enforce a right to present to or bestow any ecclesiastical benefice, as patron thereof, after the expiration of 100 years from the time when a clerk shall have obtained possession thereof adversely to the right claimed, unless a clerk has subsequently obtained possession of such benefice on the presentation of the person so claiming.

34. After determination of the period limited by this Act for making entry or distress, or bringing any action or suit, the right of such person to the land rent or advowson, for recovery whereof such entry, distress, action, or suit might have been made or brought, shall be extinguished.

35. The receipt of rent from a tenant shall be deemed to be receipt of profits of the land for the purposes of this Act.

REAL ACTION.

36. No action real or mixed (except a writ of right of dower, or writ of dower unde nihil habet, or a quare impedit, or an ejectment), and no plaint in the nature of any such action (except for freebench or dower) shall be brought after the 31st of December 1834.

37. Real actions may be brought until the 1st June 1835, in certain cases.

38. Real actions may also be brought after the 1st June 1835, in certain cases, by persons having right to bring such actions on that day.

39. No descent cast, discontinuance, or warranty after the 31st December 1833, shall defeat any right of action for recovery of land.

40. After the 31st December 1833, no action or suit shall be brought to recover any money charged upon, or payable out of, any land or rent, or any legacy, but within twenty years after a right to receive same accrued to some person capable of giving a discharge for same, unless in the meantime there has been part payment of principal or interest, or a written acknowledgment, signed by the person liable or his agent, and then within twenty years after such payment or acknowledgment, or the last of them, if more than one.

41. After the 31st December 1833, only six years' arrears of dower to be recoverable.

42. After the 31st December 1833, no arrears of rent, or interest on money charged upon any land or rent, or on any legacy, shall be recovered but within six years after becoming due, or after a written acknowledgment of same, signed by the person liable or his agent: but where a prior mortgagee has been in possession of land within one year before action brought by a subsequent mortgagee, such subsequent mortgagee may recover all arrears of interest accrued due whilst prior mortgagee was in possession, although they exceed six years.

43. After the 31st December 1833, proceedings in spiritual courts for recovery of tithes or other property to be brought within same period as actions at law or suits in equity.

* See 19 & 20 Vict. c. 97, sect. 10, post.

6. If in any such actions judgment for plaintiff be reversed on error, or be given against him on motion in arrest of judgment, the plaintiff may bring a new action within a year after judgment reversed, or given against him.

7. No part of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, nor the islands of Man, Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, and Sark, nor any adjacent islands being part of Her Majesty's dominions, shall be deemed "beyond the seas" within the meaning of this Act or of 21 Jac. I. c. 16.

or rent, but within twelve years after the time at which the right to do so first accrued to him, or to some person through whom he claims.

2. A right to make such entry or distress, or bring such action or suit, shall be deemed to have first accrued in respect of any future estate at the time when the same shall become an estate in possession by the determination of any prior estate, notwithstanding the claimant or some person through whom he claims shall before the creation of such prior estate have been in possession. But if the person last entitled to the particular estate has not been in possession when his interest determined, no such entry, distress, action, or suit shall be made or brought by owner of the future estate, but within twelve years after the time when the right to do so first accrued to owner of the prior estate, or within six years after the time when such future estate has become vested in possession, whichever of such periods shall be the longer; and if the right of such person be barred, no claimant in respect of any subsequent estate, under any deed, will, or settlement, taking effect after the time where a right to make entry or distress or to bring action or suit first accrued to owner of particular estate, shall make such entry or distress, or bring such action or suit.

Persons under the disability of infancy, coverture, idiotcy, lunacy, or unsoundness of mind at time when right first accrued, and claimants under them, may, notwithstanding said period of twelve years or six years (as case may be) has expired, make such entry or distress or bring such action or suit within six years after removal of their disability or their death (whichever first happens).

4. But absence beyond seas of a plaintiff or of any person through whom he claims shall no longer be a disability in these cases.

5. No entry, distress, action, or suit shall be made or brought by any person under disability or any claimant through him, but within thirty years after right first accrued.

6. When a tenant in tail makes an assurance which does not bar the remainders, and any person is in possession under such assurance, and such person or any other person (except a person entitled after the estate tail) continues in possession twelve years after the time when such assurance, if then executed, would, without consent of any other person, have barred the remainders, then at expiration of such twelve years, such assurance shall bar the remainders.

7. When a mortgagee has obtained possession or receipt of the rents of the mortgaged land, no redemption suit shall be brought but within twelve years from the time when the mortgagee obtained such possession or receipt, unless in meantime a written acknowledgment of mortgagor's title or right to redemption, signed by mortgagee, has been given to mortgagor or his agent; and in such case no such suit shall be brought but within twelve years after such acknowledgment, or the last of them, was given; and in case of several mortgagors, such acknowledgment given to one of them, or his agent, shall be sufficient; but in case of several mortgagees, such acknowledgment shall only be effectual against the mortgagees who sign it; and where the mortgagees so signing are entitled to a divided part of such land, and not to an ascertained part of mortgage money, mortgagor shall be entitled to redeem such divided part on payment, with interest, of such proportion of the mortgage money as value of divided part bears to the whole mortgaged property.

8. No action or suit shall be brought to recover any sum charged upon any land or rent, or any legacy, but within twelve years after a right to receive same has accrued to some person capable of giving a discharge for same, unless in meantime there has been part payment of principal or interest, or a written acknowledgment signed by person liable, or his agent, and then within twelve years after such payment or acknowledgment, or the last of them.

9. After commencement of this Act, 3 & 4 Wm. IV., c. 27, shall remain in force, except sections next mentioned, and shall take effect as if the aforesaid provisions of this Act were substituted in that Act for sections 2, 5, 16, 17, 23, 28, and 40 respectively (which after commencement of this Act are repealed), and as if six years were mentioned instead of ten in section 18 of said Act, and twelve years were mentioned in said section 18 instead of twenty ; and 7 Wm IV., and 1 Vict. c. 28, shall be read as if twelve years were therein mentioned, instead of twenty.

10. After commencement of this Act no proceeding shall be brought for any sum or legacy charged on land or rent, and secured by express trust, or for arrears of rent or interest, in respect of such sum or legacy, or damages in respect of such arrears, except within same time as if there were no express trust.

demise the same. But this Act is not to modify any of the provisions of 9 Geo. II. c. 36, or to make valid any gift or purchase which would be invalid under that Act.

Such certificate is not to have the effect of transferring to the incorporated trustees any funds or securities held by the official trustees of charitable funds, but the same shall be transferable only by the official trustees to the incorporated trustees, at the discretion of the Commissioners.

10. After such incorporation every gift and disposition of property, real or personal, theretofore lawfully made (but not having actually taken effect), or thereafter lawfully made by deed, will, or otherwise in favour of such charity, shall take effect as if the same had been made in favour of the incorporated body.

11. Contracts made by the trustees, which would be valid according to the rules of the charity if no such incorporation had taken place, shall be valid, although the same be not made under their common seal.

13. In order to extend the provisions of 30 Vict. c. 57, and to facilitate the enrolling of deeds relating to charitable trusts, where the original deeds have been lost, or have not been enrolled in proper time, it is enacted that after the passing of this Act, if the Clerk of Inrolments in Chancery be satisfied, by affidavit or otherwise, that the instrument conveying or charging the hereditaments for charitable uses was made bonâ fide for full and valuable consideration, actually paid at or before the making thereof, or reserved by way of rent-charge, or other annual payment, or partly paid and partly reserved in manner aforesaid, without fraud or collusion; and that at the time of the application to the said Clerk of Inrolments, possession is held under such instrument; and that the omission to enrol it in proper time arose from ignorance or inadvertence, or from the destruction thereof by time or accident, it shall be lawful for the said Clerk of Inrolments to enrol the Instrument to which the application relates, or such a subsequent deed as in the said Act mentioned, as the case may be; and such enrolment shall be as valid as if made under the last-mentioned Act. 4. All persons and their respective heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, are to have the same remedies for recovering the apportioned parts, when payable, as they would have had for recovering the entire portions, if entitled thereto; provided that persons liable to pay rent in respect of lands, and such lands, shall not be resorted to for such apportioned part, but the entire rent including such apportioned part, shall be received by the person, who, if the rent had not been apportionable, would have been entitled to such entire rent, and such apportioned part shall be recoverable from such person by action or suit.

51. If protector's consent is given by deed, it must be executed at same time as, or before, the surrender, and produced to steward, who must endorse such production on the deed, and enter the deed and endorsement on the court rolls.

52. If such consent be not given by deed, it shall be given to the person taking the surrender, and such consent shall be mentioned in the memorandum of surrender.

53. Deed barring equitable estate-tail to be entered on rolls of the manor; and if protector consents by distinct deed, it must be executed at same time as, or before, the disentailing deed, and be entered on the rolls, and be endorsed with memorandum of such entry. Every disentailing deed of copyholds by an equitable tenant-in-tail, is void against a purchaser who claims under a subsequent assurance entered on rolls prior to such disentailing deed.

54. Disentailing assurances of copyholds require no enrolment except on the court rolls.

ESTATES TAIL OF BANKRUPTS.

56. In the case of an actual tenant-in-tail becoming bankrupt, the commissioner shall by deed dispose of the lands entailed to a purchaser for the benefit of the creditors.

57. If a tenant-in-tail entitled to a base fee becomes bankrupt, and if there is no protector, the commissioner shall by deed dispose of the lands to a purchaser.

58. The commissioner shall stand in the place of the bankrupt tenant-in-tail so far as regards the consent of the protector; and all the previous clauses as to the protector's consent in case of freehold shall (except as varied by the next following section) apply to his consent under this clause.

59. The deed of disposition by the commissioner of lands, not being copyholds, shall be void unless enrolled in Chancery within six calendar months after execution, and the deed of disposition of copyholds shall be entered on the Court Rolls. If the protector consent by distinct deed to a disposition of copyholds, such deed must be executed on or before the day on which the deed of disposition is executed by the commissioner, and be entered on the Court Rolls.

60. If the commissioner create a base fee, and subsequently there cease to be a protector, then such base fee shall be enlarged into the same estate into which it could have been enlarged if at the time of its creation there had been no protector.

61. If a tenant-in-tail entitled to a base fee become bankrupt at the time when there is a protector, and if the lands be sold under the bankruptcy laws, and if subsequently there cease to be a protector, then such base fee shall be enlarged into the same estate into which the same could have been enlarged if at the time of adjudication of bankruptcy there had been no protector, and the commissioner had disposed of the lands under this Act.

62. If an actual tenant-in-tail or a tenant-in-tail entitled to a base fee create a voidable estate in favour of a purchaser, and afterwards become bankrupt, and the commissioner dispose of the lands under this Act, such disposition, if made with consent of protector (if any), shall confirm such voidable estate; but not if such disposition by the commissioner be in favour of a purchaser without notice of the voidable estate.

63. All acts of a bankrupt tenant-in-tail in respect of the lands entailed, which if he had been seised in fee simple would have been void against his assignees in bankruptcy, shall be void against any disposition by the commissioner.

64. Subject to the powers given to the commissioner, and to the estate vested in the assignees, the bankrupt tenant-in-tail shall retain his powers of disposition.

65. Any disposition by the commissioner of the lands of a bankrupt tenant-in-tail shall, although the bankrupt be dead at the time of such disposition, be valid in the following cases:—(1) if there be no protector at the time of the bankrupt's death; (2) if the bankrupt was actual tenant-in-tail, and there be at the time of such disposition any issue inheritable to the estate-tail, and either no protector or a protector who consents to such disposition, or a protector who does not consent; (3) if the bankrupt was tenant-in-tail entitled to a base fee, and there be at the time of such disposition any issue who would have been inheritable to the estate-tail, if no base fee had been created, and either no protector or a protector who consents to such disposition.

66. Every disposition by the commissioner of copyhold lands where the estate is not merely equitable shall have the same operation as a surrender; and the person to whom such land shall have been disposed of may claim to be admitted on paying the fines, &c.

By 32 & 33 Vict. c. 71, sect. 22, para. I., it is enacted that the trustee shall not be compellable to be admitted to copyholds of the bankrupt, but may deal with them as if they had been surrendered to such uses as the trustee may appoint, and any appointee of the trustee shall be admitted accordingly.

67. The bankrupt's assignee shall recover and receive rents of the lands of which the commissioner has power under this Act to make disposition, and may enforce covenants in respect of such lands in the same way as the bankrupt could have done if he had not been adjudged a bankrupt. This clause to apply to all copyhold lands, but as to other lands, only to those which the commissioner has power to dispose of after the bankrupt's death.

68. All the provisions of this Act as to bankrupts shall apply to their lands in Ireland.

69. Deeds relating to the lands of bankrupts in Ireland shall be enrolled in the Court of Chancery there within six calendar months after execution, and not in the Court of Chancery in England.

By 32 & 33 Vict. c. 71, sect. 25 sub. sec. 4, it is enacted that subject to the provisions of that Act, the trustee shall have power to deal with any property to which the bankrupt is beneficially entitled as tenant-in-tail in the same manner as the bankrupt might have dealt with the same; and sects. 56-73 of 3 & 4 Wm. IV. c. 74 shall apply to bankruptcy proceedings under this Act, as if those sections were made applicable in terms to such proceedings.

ENTAILED MONEY, ETC.

71. Lands to be sold, where the purchase money is subject to be invested in purchase of lands to be entailed, and money subject to be invested in purchase of lands to be entailed, to be treated as the lands to be purchased. But any assurance under this clause of leaseholds, or money so circumstanced as aforesaid, shall be by an assignment by deed, enrolled in Chancery within six calendar months after execution.

73. Disentailing deeds not to require acknowledgment before enrolment in Chancery.

74. As between purchasers, the deed first enrolled has priority.

After 31st December 1833, every married woman (except a tenant-in-tail) may by deed dispose of lands of any tenure, and money to be invested in lands, also extinguish powers vested in her, the same as if she were a feme sole—but the deed must be concurred in by her husband, and acknowledged by her. Act not to extend to copyholds where the object to be effected by this clause was heretofore effected by her, in concurrence with her husband, by surrender to the lord of the manor.

79. Deeds executed by a married woman under this Act (except as protector) to be acknowledged by her before a judge of a superior court at Westminster, or two perpetual commissioners, or two special commissioners.*

80. Such persons, before taking acknowledgment, are to examine her apart from her husband, touching her knowledge of such deed, and to ascertain whether she freely consents thereto.

92. Act not to extend to Ireland except where expressly mentioned.

* Such acknowledgment may also be received by a judge of a County Court, 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, sec. 73.

agricultural or occupation lease 21 years, for a mining lease, or a lease of water, water-mills, way-leaves, water-leaves, or other rights or easements, 40 years, and for a building lease 99 years, or if the Court satisfied that it is the usual custom of the district, and beneficial to the inheritance, to grant building leases for longer terms, then for such term as the Court shall direct.

2dly. Such lease to be for the best rent, without fine.

10. Such powers of leasing may be vested either in the existing trustees of the settlement or in any other persons: and the Court may impose conditions as to consents or otherwise on the exercise of such power.

13. On a sale of land, minerals may be excepted.

And in every other case the parties to consent are the persons in existence having any beneficial interest under the settlement, and all trustees having any interest on behalf of any unborn child.

18. But unless there be a person entitled to an estate of inheritance whose consent cannot be obtained, the Court may give effect to any petition, subject to the rights of non-consenting parties.

19. Notice of any application to Court under this Act to be served on all trustees possessed of any estate in trust for any person whose consent is required.

28th August 1860.

PART I.

TRUSTEES.

1. Trustees who by express declaration have a power of sale over hereditaments, may sell, either together or in lots, by public auction or private contract, at one time or several times, and (if expressly authorised to exchange) may exchange for any other hereditaments in England or Wales or in Ireland (as the case may be), and give or receive money for equality of exchange.

2. Such sale or exchange may be under special stipulations as to title or otherwise, and the trustees may buy in, and rescind, or vary the contract, and resell, without being responsible for loss; and no purchaser to be bound to inquire whether the trustees have in contemplation any particular re-investment of purchase-money.

3. The trustees exercising such power of sale or exchange to have full power to convey.

4. The money received upon such sale or exchange to be laid out as indicated in the trust instrument, or if no such indication, then in purchase of other hereditaments in England or Wales or in Ireland (as the case may be), or of leaseholds or copyholds convenient to be held therewith, or with other hereditaments subject to same trusts ; and freeholds so purchased or taken in exchange shall be settled to the same uses as the hereditaments sold or given in exchange were subject, but not so as to multiply charges : and leaseholds or copyholds so purchased or taken in exchange shall be settled upon such trusts as shall correspond with the aforesaid uses ; but not so as to multiply charges ; and so that if any hereditaments so purchased be held for a lease for years, they shall not vest absolutely in any tenant-in-tail by purchase who shall not attain 21 years ; and provided that no leaseholds shall be purchased which are held for less than 60 years.

5. The trustees, instead of laying out such monies in purchase of lands, may apply the same in paying off incumbrances upon the hereditaments subject to same uses as those sold.

6. No money arising from such sale or exchange to be laid out in lands, nor lands to be exchanged for lands, situate elsewhere than in the country in which the lands sold or exchanged are situate.

7. Until such monies be disposed of as aforesaid, they shall be invested at interest for the benefit of the parties entitled to the hereditaments to be purchased therewith.

8. Trustees of renewable leaseholds may, and if required by a beneficiary, must, endeavour to obtain a renewed lease of the same on reasonable terms, and for that purpose may surrender the subsisting lease, and do other requisite acts ; but this is not to apply where by the terms of the instrument the person in possession is entitled to enjoy the same without renewing.

9. Money required for equality of exchange or renewal of leases may be paid by the trustees out of trust monies in their hands ; and if not sufficient money in hand, they may raise same by mortgage of the hereditaments to be received in exchange or contained in the renewed lease, or of other hereditaments subject to the same uses.

10. No sale, exchange, or purchase as aforesaid shall be made without consent of the person appointed to consent by the trust instrument, or if no one appointed, then of the person entitled to the rents and profits of such hereditaments, if under no disability; but this clause shall not require the consent of any person where it appears from the instrument that no consent was to be required.

PART II.

MORTGAGEES.

11. Where principal money is secured by deed on hereditaments of any tenure, or on any interest therein, the mortgagee, his executors, administrators, and assigns, shall at any time after expiration of one year from time when such principal has become payable, or after any interest has been in arrear for six months, or after omission to pay any premium on insurance which by the terms of the deed ought to be paid by the mortgagor, have the following powers, namely:—

(1st.) A power to sell or concur in selling the property by public auction or private contract, subject to any reasonable conditions, and to rescind or vary contracts for sale, or buy in and re-sell.

(2dly.) A power to insure against fire, and to add the premiums to the principal money secured at the same rate of interest.

(3dly.) A power to appoint receiver.

12. Receipts for purchase-money given by the person exercising the power of sale to be sufficient discharge to purchasers.

13. No sale to be made till after six months' notice in writing to the mortgagor, or affixed on some conspicuous part of the property; but after sale effected the purchaser's title not to be impeached on ground that sale was unauthorised, or that no such notice was given.

14. The sale monies to be applied in payment of:—
1st, expenses of sale, or attempted sale; 2dly, interest and costs; 3dly, the principal; and the residue is to be paid to the mortgagor.

15. The mortgagee to have power by deed to convey to the purchaser the property sold for all the estate and interest therein which the mortgagor had power to dispose of, except that in the case of copyholds the beneficial interest only shall be vested in the purchaser, by such deed.

16. At any time after the aforesaid power of sale has become exercisable, the mortgagee shall be entitled to recover from mortgagor all the documents in his power relating to the property, and where the legal estate is outstanding in a trustee, the person entitled to a charge created by a person equitably entitled, or any purchaser from him, shall be entitled to call for a conveyance of the legal estate to the same extent as the person creating the charge could have done.

17. Any person entitled to appoint a receiver may appoint any person named in the deed for that purpose to be receiver, or, if no one named, may, by writing delivered to the mortgagor, or affixed on conspicuous part of property, require him to appoint a receiver, and if no appointment be made within ten days thereafter, then the mortgagee may, in writing, appoint any person receiver.

18. Every receiver so appointed to be deemed the agent of the mortgagor.

19. Every such receiver to have power to recover the rents, by action, distress, or otherwise, in the name of the mortgagor or mortgagee.

20. Every such receiver may be removed in like manner as provided with respect to his appointment, and new receivers may be appointed.

21. Every such receiver to be entitled to such commission, not exceeding 5 per cent. on the gross amount received, as specified in his appointment, and if no amount specified, then 5 per cent. on such gross amount.

22. Every such receiver shall, if directed in writing by such mortgagee, insure the property against fire, out of the amount received by him.

23. Every such receiver shall apply the money received by him :—

- 1st. In discharge of taxes and rates, and payment of his commission, and the premiums on the insurances, if any.
- 2dly. In payment of all interest due, and shall pay residue to mortgagor.

PART III.

27. Whenever a trustee, whether appointed by Court of Chancery or otherwise, dies, or desires to be discharged from, or becomes unfit, or incapable to act in the trusts, the person nominated for that purpose by the trust instrument (if any), or, if none, or none willing to act, then the surviving or continuing trustees or trustee, or the acting executors or administrators of the last surviving and continuing trustee, or the last retiring trustee, may by writing appoint a new trustee or new trustees; and every new trustee so appointed, as well before as after conveyance of the trust property to him; and, also every trustee appointed by the Court of Chancery, either before or after the passing of this Act, shall have the same powers, as if he had been

28. The aforesaid power of appointing new trustees may be exercised where a trustee nominated in a will has died in testator's lifetime.

29. The receipt in writing of any trustee for money payable to him by reason of any trusts reposed in him, shall be a sufficient discharge, and shall effectually exonerate the person paying the money from seeing to the application thereof.

30. Executors may pay debts on any evidence that they think sufficient, and accept any composition, or any security for debts due to deceased, and allow time for payment of such debts, and compromise or submit to arbitration all claims relating to the estate of the deceased.

SALES BY TRUSTEES OF LAND OR MINERALS SEPARATELY.

25 & 26 VICT. c. 108.

7th August 1862.

1. No past sale, or exchange of land, reserving the minerals, or of minerals apart from the land, made by trustees in exercise of a power not forbidding the same respectively, shall be invalid on the ground that the power did not authorise such reservation or sale.

2. Trustees authorised to dispose of land by way of sale, exchange, partition, or enfranchisement, may, unless forbidden by the trust instrument, dispose of the same, reserving the minerals, with or without powers of working the same, and may (unless forbidden) dispose of the minerals with or without such powers as aforesaid, apart from the land; but no such disposition as aforesaid to be made without the previous sanction of the Court of Chancery obtained on petition in a summary way by such trustees, which sanction once obtained shall authorise any disposition within this enactment of any part of the land comprised in the order made on such petition, without the necessity of any further application to the Court.

3. Act not to extend to Ireland or Scotland.

PARTNERSHIP.

28 & 29 VICT. c. 86.

5th July 1865.

1. The loan of money to a person or partnership engaged in any trade or undertaking, upon a contract, in writing, that the lender shall receive interest varying with the profits, or a share of the profits, shall not, of itself, constitute the lender a partner with the person carrying on such trade or undertaking.

2. No contract for the remuneration of a servant or agent by a share of the profits, shall, of itself, render such servant or agent responsible as a partner.

3. No widow or child of the deceased partner of a trader, and receiving as an annuity a portion of the profits, shall thereby be deemed to be a partner.

4. No person receiving, as an annuity or otherwise, a portion of the profits, in consideration of the sale of the goodwill, shall thereby be deemed a partner.

5. In the event of any such trader being adjudged bankrupt, or entering into any arrangement to pay his creditors less than 20s. in the pound, or dying insolvent, such lender, or vendor of goodwill as aforesaid, shall be postponed till the other creditors have been paid in full.

SALE OF LAND BY AUCTION ACT, 1867.

30 & 31 VICT. c. 48.

15th July 1867.

2. Act to commence on the 1st of August 1867.

4. Whereas at present when a puffer has bid courts of law hold the sale to be illegal, but courts of equity sometimes give effect to it, therefore be it enacted that hereafter, whenever a sale by auction of land would be invalid at law by reason of the employment of a puffer, the same shall be invalid in equity also.

5. The particulars or conditions of sale by auction of land, shall state whether the sale is without reserve, or subject to a reserve price, or whether a right to bid is reserved; if it is stated that the sale is without reserve, or to that effect, then it shall not be lawful for the seller to employ any person to bid at such sale.

6. Where any sale by auction of land is declared, either in the particulars or conditions, to be subject to a right for the seller to bid, it shall be lawful for the seller, or any one person on his behalf, to bid at such auction in such manner as he may think proper.

7. The practice of opening the biddings on sales by auction under order of Court of Chancery, on the ground that a larger sum is bid for the property, shall henceforth be discontinued—except on the ground of fraud or improper conduct in the management of the sale, upon the application of any person interested in the land, such application to be made to the Court or Judge before the Chief Clerk's certificate of the result of the sale shall have become binding.

9. Act not to extend to Scotland.

SALES OF REVERSIONS.

31 VICT. c. 4.

7th December 1867.

1. No purchase made bond fide, without fraud or unfair dealing, of any reversionary interest in real or personal estate, shall hereafter be set aside merely on the ground of undervalue.

2. Word "Purchase" to include every kind of contract or conveyance by which any beneficial interest in any property may be acquired.

3. Act to commence on 1st January 1868, and not to affect pending suits.

THE PARTITION ACT, 1868.

31 & 32 VICT. c. 40.

25th June 1868.

2. "The Court" means the Court of Chancery in England and in Ireland, the Landed Estates Court in Ireland, and the Chancery of the County Palatine of Lancaster.

3. In a partition suit where before this Act a partition might have been made, if the Court thinks that by reason of the nature of the property, or of any other circumstance, a sale would be more beneficial for the parties interested, the Court may, on request of any of the parties interested, and notwithstanding the dissent or disability of any others, direct a sale accordingly.

4. In a like suit if the parties interested to the extent of one moiety or upwards request a sale, the Court shall, unless it sees good reason to the contrary, direct a sale accordingly.

5. In a like suit if any party interested requests a sale the Court may, unless the other parties interested, or some of them, undertake to buy the share of the party so requesting, direct a sale; and if such undertaking be given, the Court may order a valuation to be made of the share of the party requesting a sale.

6. On any sale under this Act the Court may allow parties interested to bid on such terms as to accounting for the purchase-money instead of paying the same, or as to other matters as to the Court seem reasonable.

7. Section 30 of the Trustee Act, 1850, shall apply where the Court directs a sale instead of a partition.

8. Sections 23-25 of 19 & 20 Vict., c. 120, shall apply to money received on sales under this Act.

9. A partition suit may be maintained against one or more of the parties interested without serving the others: and at the hearing the Court may direct such inquiries as it thinks necessary, with a view to an order for partition or sale being made on further consideration; but persons who before this Act would have been necessary parties shall be served with notice of the decree, and after such notice shall be bound as if they had been originally parties to the suit, and shall be deemed parties to the suit; and such persons may have liberty to attend the proceedings, and may apply to add to the decree.

10. The Court may make such order as it thinks just as to costs up to the hearing.

12. In England the County Courts shall have jurisdiction in partition suits when the property does not exceed in value £500, and the same shall be exercised in like manner as the power conferred by section 1 of 28 & 29 v., c. 99.

5. Hereafter an alien shall not be entitled to a jury de medietate linguæ.

6. A British subject in a foreign state upon voluntarily becoming naturalised in such state, shall, if not under

This section shall be deemed to take effect from the date at which the said supplementary Convention took effect.

3. Nothing contained in "The Naturalisation Act, 1870," shall deprive any married woman of any estate or interest in real or personal property to which she may have become entitled previously to the passing of that Act, or affect such estate or interest to her prejudice.

2. Deposits hereafter made in any Savings' Bank, and Government Annuities granted in name of a married woman, or a woman married after such deposit or grant, are to be her separate property, and be paid to her as if she were an unmarried woman.

3. Any woman married, or about to marry, may apply to Bank of England or Ireland, that any public stocks, not less than £20, to which she is entitled, may be transferred into her name, or intended name, as a married woman, entitled for her separate use; and after such transfer the same shall be her separate property, and be dealt with as if she were an unmarried woman.

4. Any woman married, or about to marry, may apply in writing to any Incorporated or Joint-Stock Company, that any fully paid-up shares, or any debenture, debenture stock, or stock, to the holding of which no liability is attached, may be registered in her name, or intended name, as a married woman entitled to her separate use, and the Com-

6. Act not to give validity to any deposit or investment of monies of husband made in fraud of creditors.

7. Any woman married after 9th August 1870, who, during marriage becomes entitled to any personal property as next of kin of an intestate; or to not exceeding £200, under deed or will, shall, subject to any settlement thereof, hold the same for her separate use, and her receipts alone shall be a good discharge.

8. Where freeholds or copyholds descend on a woman married after 9th August 1870, as heiress or co-heiress of an intestate, the rents thereof shall, subject to any settlement thereof, belong to her for her separate use, and her receipts alone shall be a good discharge.

9. Disputes between husband and wife as to property hereby declared to be her separate property, are to be determined either by Court of Chancery of England or Ireland, upon summons or motion, or in England (whatever the value) by a County Court Judge of district in which either party resides; the decision of such Judge to be subject to appeal as in case of an equitable plaint.

10. A married woman may insure her own or her husband's life for her separate use, and the full benefit of same, if expressed on policy to be so effected, shall enure accordingly. A policy effected by a married man on his own life, and expressed on face of it to be for benefit of his wife, or wife and children, shall enure for benefit of his wife for her separate use, and for his children, according to the interest so expressed, and shall not be under control of husband or his creditors. If proved that such policy was effected, and premiums paid by husband with intent to defraud creditors, they shall receive out of the sum secured an amount equal to the premiums so paid.

11. A married woman may maintain an action in her own name for recovery of any property hereby declared to be her separate property, or of any property belonging to her before marriage, and which her husband has, by writing under his hand agreed, shall belong to her after marriage as her separate property, and she shall have in her own name same remedies, civil and criminal, for protection and security of any such property, and any property purchased therewith, as if such property belonged to her as an unmarried woman ; and in any indictment or other proceeding, it is sufficient to allege such property to be hers.

12.* A husband married after 9th August 1870, not to be liable for his wife's debts contracted before marriage, but she shall be liable to be sued for, and any property belonging to her for her separate use shall be liable for, such debts, as if she had continued unmarried.

37 & 38 VICT. c. 50.

2. The husband shall in any such action, and in any action for damages for tort committed by wife before marriage, or for breach of contract made by her before marriage, be liable to the extent only of the assets herein-after specified ; and in addition to other pleas, may plead that he is not liable in respect of any such assets ; or confessing his liability to some amount that he is not liable beyond ; and if no such plea is pleaded, the husband shall be deemed to have confessed his liability so far as assets are concerned.

3. If it is not found in such action that husband is liable in respect of such assets, he shall have judgment for his costs, whatever the result of the action against wife.

4. When husband and wife are sued jointly, if it appears that husband is liable, judgment to the extent for which he is liable shall be joint against him and wife; and as to the residue, if any, of debt or damages, shall be a separate judgment against wife.

5. Assets for which the husband is liable in such action are—

(1.) Value of personalty in possession of wife which has vested in him.

(2.) Value of choses in action of wife which he has reduced into possession, or which with reasonable diligence he might have so reduced.

(2.) Being employed in preparing such instrument, neglect to fully set forth such circumstances, shall forfeit ten pounds.

13. Where an instrument comprising stock, &c., is stamped in accordance with a statement of average price therein contained, it shall be deemed duly stamped, until it is shown that such statement is untrue, and the stamp insufficient.

16. On production of an unstamped or insufficiently stamped instrument as evidence in Court, the officer whose duty it is to read the instrument, is to call the attention of the Judge to the fact, and if it is an instrument which may be legally stamped after execution, it may, on payment of unpaid duty, and the penalty, and a further sum of one pound, be received in evidence.

2. The registrar of the County Court may require proof of the identity and relationship of applicant.

THE LAW OF ELECTIONS.

12mo (1874), price 12s. cloth,

A GUIDE TO ELECTION LAW

AND THE

LAW AND PRACTICE OF ELECTION PETITIONS.

SECOND EDITION

BY THE

Hon. CHANDOS LEIGH, M.A., late Fellow of All Souls College, Oxford, Barrister-at-Law, Recorder of Stamford;

AND

HENRY D. LE MARCHANT, M.A., Ch. Ch., Oxford, Esq.,
Barrister-at-Law.

"All engaged in Election Petitions, whether as judges, counsel, attorneys, or petitioners, will find the present volume a very useful companion. Since the publication of the first edition, which was favourably received by the legal profession in 1870, the Ballot Act of 1872 has come into operation, and considerably affected the procedure at the Trials of Petitions. The first three chapters of the new edition are almost identical with those of the first edition, but the fourth chapter, upon Scrutiny, has been entirely re-written, and, as it now stands, contains valuable information not given in any other legal work. . . . In addition to the original matter supplied by the authors, the volume contains all the Acts bearing upon Parliamentary and Municipal Elections, with the rules and forms carefully set out. In the chapter on 'Practical Suggestions and Evidence,' those engaged in the working of Election Petitions will find much valuable information—information which shows that the authors, in addition to their legal knowledge gained from books and Acts of Parliament, have that experience which practice alone can give."—The Pall Mall Gazette.

"The work is eminently practical, very concise, and yet, if judged according to its aim, very complete. It may be regarded as being at present the standard 'Practice of Election Petitions.'"—Solicitors' Journal.

"Messrs Leigh and Le Marchant have already collected a great number of very important dicta from the recorded decisions of the three able Judges to whose hands the inauguration of the new judicature was entrusted. . . . The chapter headed 'Practical Suggestions and Evidence' will be found extremely useful as giving a plain and popular account of the proceedings connected with the conduct of Election Petitions. About the whole volume, indeed, there is an avoidance of technicalities wherever possible, which will make the work both attractive and useful to the candidate as well as to his legal adviser. The handy shape of the volume too, will recommend it as a companion on electioneering adventure."

enabling, as it does, even the non-professional reader to see almost at a glance the path which the constitution of England requires him to take. We may all be thankful to the authors of this little work for the lucid and satisfactory manner in which they have introduced us to what may, in some sense, be called a new department of law, avia Pieridum loca, if there be any legal Muses."—The Times.

"In six short chapters the subjects of corrupt practices, agency, penalties, scrutiny, evidence, and disqualification of persons to be elected, are treated in a clear and concise manner. The sections of the different acts bearing on each particular subject are given, and the dicta of the Judges in construing the sections are extracted from the reports. Two of the Judges, Mr Baron Martin and Mr Justice Willes, have themselves revised many of the extracts, and otherwise rendered assistance, which is warmly acknowledged in the preface. By means of an ample and well-arranged index, it is very easy to refer to any point upon which information is required, so that, for the future, M.P.s who plead their ignorance and inexperience will have no excuse."—The Pall Mall Gazette.

"To countesses, candidates, and lawyers alike, we recommend a perusal of the first two chapters of this book before they initiate another canvass, for they will learn from them that the present law is somewhat strict, and that persons simply trying in good faith to bring in their man by means which they believe to be legitimate, may ruin him by some illegality into which they unconsciously fall. . . . The method adopted combines accuracy and clearness. The writers give the actual words of the Statute defining any practice as illegal, and illustrate it by the opinions of the Judges expressed on particular instances which have come before them."—The Globe.

"The decision of the Judges on various points coming before them, and the judgment of the Common Pleas in various cases under the new Act, have been collated with great skill and perspicuity by the Hon. Chandos Leigh and Mr Henry Le Marchant, Barristers-at-Law, and from these and other sources of information they have compiled a brief but really useful guide to modern Election Law and the practice of Election Petitions."—Daily Telegraph.

"It is a handbook entitled to special distinction in election cases, and is the more authoritative on account of suggestions made to the editors during the progress of the work by Mr Baron Martin and Mr Justice Willes, whose decisions on the trials of last year carried with them the respect of all parties. The work includes notes on the Irish trials and the single Scotch scrutiny; but the English practice is, of course, the most important, and will be the guide for agents in future electoral litigation."—Lincoln, Rutland, and Stamford Mercury.

"We commend it to the attention of persons desirous of getting a popular notion of the result of the substitution of Election Judges for Election Committees."—The Examiner and London Review.

"This book is rendered valuable by giving us in a condensed form the opinions of the different Election Judges, and the various clauses as expressed in their respective judgments. . . . It only remains to be said, that the authors have had the valuable assistance of suggestions from both Mr Baron Martin and Mr Justice Willes, and doubtless their book will speedily achieve the position of an authority on this subject."—Derbyshire Advertiser and Journal.

LAW OF LANDLORD AND TENANT.

In 8vo (1871), price 14s. cloth lettered,

A MANUAL OF THE LAW OF LANDLORD AND TENANT.

BY

HORACE SMITH, B.A., of Trin. Hall, Cambridge, and of the Inner Temple,

AND

THOMAS SPOONER SODEN, M.A., of Exeter College, Oxford, and of the Middle Temple, Esquires, Barristers-at-Law.

UNDER THE EDITORSHIP OF

LEWIS W. CAVE, B.A., of Lincoln College, Oxford, and of the Inner Temple, Esquire, Barrister-at-Law,

Editor of "Addison on Contracts," "Burn's Justice of the Peace."

"It is not ambitious in its plan. It aims only at being a 'practical manual.' As already stated, it seeks only to give the effect of the enactments and decisions. The book, indeed, is meant as a substitute for Woodfall's Landlord and Tenant, a book which has become overgrown with the additions of successive editors. It is a summary of the law, which will not supersede the larger and more elaborate work, but which still will be useful for its own purposes as an abridgment. We have given a few specimens of the book, and the reader will see its style; neat, terse, concise; not entering into deep questions, or into reasons or principles. . . . The result is a compact, useful book, a readable, practical Manual of the Law of Landlord and Tenant."—The Times.

"Mr Smith and Mr Soden have done much more than merely secure the authenticity of their work, they have contrived besides to give to their style the charm of art without either the cumbrousness of artificiality or the perplexity of involution. . . . Who can examine the index to Smith and Soden's work, under the title 'Notice to quit,' and not be pleased and gratified, and also most materially assisted by their lucid subdivisions, and the full entries of most important matters under each?"—Law Magazine.

"The design of the present book has considerable originality, and forms a capital framework for the orderly reception of the great mass of materials for which it had to provide. . . . The plan of arrangement is always the most important consideration in a manual, and to the one we have described we give unqualified praise. . . . Altogether the Authors and Editor have been remarkably successful in grappling with the difficulties of a manual on the wide and intricate subject of Landlord and Tenant."—Law Journal.

"Mr Cave's book is well arranged and well indexed. . . . Certainly more explanation is given of the reasons of the law, thereby materially assisting the reader in its application to cases not expressly referred to, and the medium between giving too much and too little history seems happily hit off. Again, we think the references to the recent cases of the last few months are rather more complete, as we noticed one or two given by Mr Cave but not by Mr Fawcett. Again, Mr Cave gives reference to some 2000 as against Mr Fawcett's 1500. . . . Mr Cave's book treats rather better of the Common Law Courts (notably the subject of the writ of habere facias) than Mr Fawcett's, and is probably better suited to the wants of the practitioner."—Solicitors' Journal.
